Dr. Steven Gillespie is an adjunct professor in the School of Safety and Emergency Services at Columbia Southern University. Prof. Gillespie joined CSU in the Fall of 2013, and teaches the principle elements of leadership and management in a collaborative environment to assist in the development of current and future leaders.

Dr. Gillespie’s research interests are focused on decision-making processes within stressful and non-stressful environments to improve safety, processes, and efficiencies.

Prof. Gillespie has taught courses in a variety of locations and venues including: Fire Department Instructors Conference, Fire Rescue International, and various locations throughout the Unites States and Canada.

Dr. Steven Gillespie can be reached at Steven.Gillespie@columbiasouthern.edu and (303) 653-6754